Workshop Details

This workshop is a follow-up of the successful series of ten BCworkshops, the last one of which was organized in Konstanz in 2022. The specific topic of back contact technologies of this series of workshops has drawn on an average of 120 - 150 participants from all over the world, to focus on current and future approaches of c-Si back contact cells and modules. As in 2022, due to the BCworkshop 2023's hybrid format, we expect about 100 additional participants attending online.

Organizers will be Thorsten Dullweber (ISFH Hameln) together with Conexio-PSE, Freiburg.

The two-day workshop consists of more than thirty presentations (from R&D and industry) with subsequent Q&A sessions, and a possible panel discussion. Over the course of two days, workshop participants will have plenty of opportunities for informal contacts, networking, and exchange of ideas. To meet the increasing international interest, the workshop will be streamed online as part of its hybrid format.

The workshop program includes oral presentations addressing the following main topics:

- IBC solar cells
- MWT solar cells
- Cell technology and processes
- Module technology and processes
- Applications
